

Finding the Right Funeral Home

- Will the arrangements be handled by one person?
- Do you like the facilities?
- Is the owner available and on site?
- Does the funeral home have experience with your religion's specific funeral rites?
- Do the funeral directors make you feel comfortable?

Develop Rapport with the Director

Don't be afraid to invite loved ones to meet your funeral director and develop a relationship before death occurs. That rapport can positively influence your family's level of comfort and reassurance during the time of need.

Pre-Need Funeral Planning

WALDMAN FUNERAL CARE

Sometimes the best gift is a plan. Let your loved ones have peace of mind. Give them your plan.

The Advantages of Pre-Planning

Locked-in Pricing

As agents with the Funeral Directors Life Insurance Company (FDLIC), we offer “pre-need funeral” policies for those who want to lock in pricing, make periodic payments, or need to spend down assets to qualify for government programs.

Ample Time for Thoughtful Preparation

Often, details can get lost when emotions are high. Advance planning ensures that all the special, memorable touches – such as music choices, readings and family traditions – and vital information – such as burial directives, family information and clergy contacts – are captured now vs. when your attention may be pulled elsewhere.

Peace of Mind

When the time comes, all you’ll need to do is make one call and Waldman Funeral Care will take it from there.

Thoughtfully planning your own or your dear one’s life tribute in advance is probably one of the most loving, respectful and practical gestures you can make.

With respect for all family values, customs and traditions, Waldman Funeral Care will sit with you to discuss what your or your loved one’s tribute should look like. We are prepared to discuss questions such as:

- Burial or cremation?
- Where is the cemetery property located?
- Where will the tribute be held?
- Who will officiate?
- What traditions should be incorporated?
- Any special music, messages or readings?
- If cremation, what are options for protecting and preserving the cremated remains?
- Where do you want to store all pre-planning information, and who should have access?
- What tributes are available for military veterans?
